

BRIEF

Body Glove® is an outdoor water sports brand that sells products for surf, wake, and diving activities.

Body Glove has an oath to help protect swimmers stay safe from the ocean. Being the largest water sports brand, I am pitching this project to be an extension of that oath out to marine life.

The marketing objective is to inform the target audience of beach pollution. This goal will be reached by spreading awareness through vibrant visuals.

BODY GLOVE

CONCEPT BOARD

NEW

One size fits all, toes on your nose stability in a wide profile compression molded wake surfer. A construction similar to your favorite wakeboard, but made with a lighter resin than other compression molded surfers out there.

Designed for riders looking for a freshwater surf experience - even with smaller boat wakes. Riders of any weight range that want a universally stable all around deck, or skimmers looking to hang ten. EVA traction pad covers the board from tip to tail, no matter what your stance your feet have padding. Includes fins.

I had fun creating this spread!
I had originally envisioned
the letters having this flowy movement, similar to waves.

I photoshopped a sea turtle wearing goggles for ads that I made, and thought for that to have been too gimmicky later on.

Snorkle water station at beach.

I love guerilla advertising and concepted this idea of an interactive water station on a public beach. I photoshopped a Body Glove Snorkel as a water spout. The idea soon became silly with the direction of the water.

There's an island of garbage twice the size of Texas inside the Pacific Ocean.
